70 Men Will Lose Rail Freight Jobs In Shift to Utica

West Shore to Discontinue Transferring Here; $10,000 Payroll Goes Out of Kingston

An estimated 60 to 70 men will be laid off here because of the shifting of West Shore railroad freight transfer operations from this city to Utica, John A. Simpson, local freight agent, said today.

Word of the change came only yesterday, as a sudden surprise to employees of the local freight office and it is expected that details of the shift will be completed by the middle of next week.

The change will mean a loss of an estimated $10,000 monthly payroll to city workmen, although a force of from 25 to 30 men is expected to be kept on to handle local freight.

The men will be discharged gradually, Simpson said. Four were laid off yesterday, eight more are expected to be discharged Saturday, and several from then on until details of the change are completed.

Some men of the regular force at the freight station had been previously laid off when the volume of freight lessened, but a complete shift of the transfer was not expected at that time.

Congress Is Skeptical Of Program

Members Prefer More Information About Administration Idea to Cut Bills

May Hit Trouble Draws Sharp Criticism From Some Leaders in G.O.P.

Washington, April 8 (AP)—A somewhat skeptical Congress took a "tell-us-more" attitude today toward the administration's new farm program. It is aimed at cutting consumer grocery bills and keeping farmers prosperous at the same time.

"I want to hear more about it, how it would operate, and what it would cost the taxpayers," was the typical reaction of members of Congress who heard Secretary of Agriculture Brannan outline the plan yesterday.

The secretary was called before the House Agriculture Committee today to answer questions. He sketched the program before a joint meeting of the House and Senate committees yesterday. But there was not time for members to inquire extensively into its provisions.

Even so, it was quite apparent that the plan faces tough going. It drew immediate sharp criticism from some Republican farm-state leaders. The powerful American Farm Bureau Federation indicated it will stand pat in its support of present farm laws. At its last convention, the bureau went on record against a farmer-payment plan included in the administration plan.

Democrats as a whole withheld judgment. Chairman Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee said he was in "full accord" with the plan's objectives. But he did not commit himself on its methods.

The methods, rather than the objectives, will be the subject of debate and controversy. Expected to arouse sharp opposition are these provisions of the program:

(1) Use of government payments to farmers to assure them a minimum return for such products as hogs, cattle, lambs, milk, butterfat, eggs, poultry, fruits and vegetables.

This provision would permit consumer prices of these products to rise.

(2) Use of government payments to farmers to assure them a minimum return for such products as hogs, cattle, lambs, milk, butterfat, eggs, poultry, fruits and vegetables.

Russia May Veto Bid by Koreans For Membership

Security Council Considers Bid; Debate Is to Begin on Fight in Indonesia

Lake Success, April 8 (AP)—Russia's 30th veto appears probable in the Security Council today.

The council is set to consider at 3 p. m. the application of the Republic of Korea for membership. Some delegates figure a vote may be taken. If it comes, Russia is certain to veto the bid from the republic, which has jurisdiction only over the southern (American-occupied) zone of Korea.

The 14-member steering committee meets today for preliminary debate on the Dutch-Indonesian conflict.

India and Australia wait this dispute out on the assembly's work sheet. Their delegates say they know the assembly cannot act while the Security Council is dealing with the Indonesian case but they believe the pressure of debate in the assembly would speed Dutch compliance with Security Council decisions.

Observers noted meanwhile that Russia's chief deputy foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, has held his fire on the North Atlantic Pact. He was expected to blast it soon after the assembly convened last Tuesday. Indications are that he will pick the most opportune time for his attack. There is no indication when it will come.

So far, Gromyko has not made a major address in this assembly. He is slated to speak on the question of Italy's former colonies at the next meeting of the 13-nation political committee, possibly Saturday or Monday. The day he had not been set when the committee adjourned last night after leaving from France and Britain.

Some U. N. observers speculate that this will give Gromyko an opportunity to blast at the North Atlantic Pact.

These sources say the Russians may have decided not to present a formal resolution calling on the U. N. to condemn the pact. Such a resolution, they add, would be defeated and backers of the pact could say then that the U. N. is definitely behind the treaty.

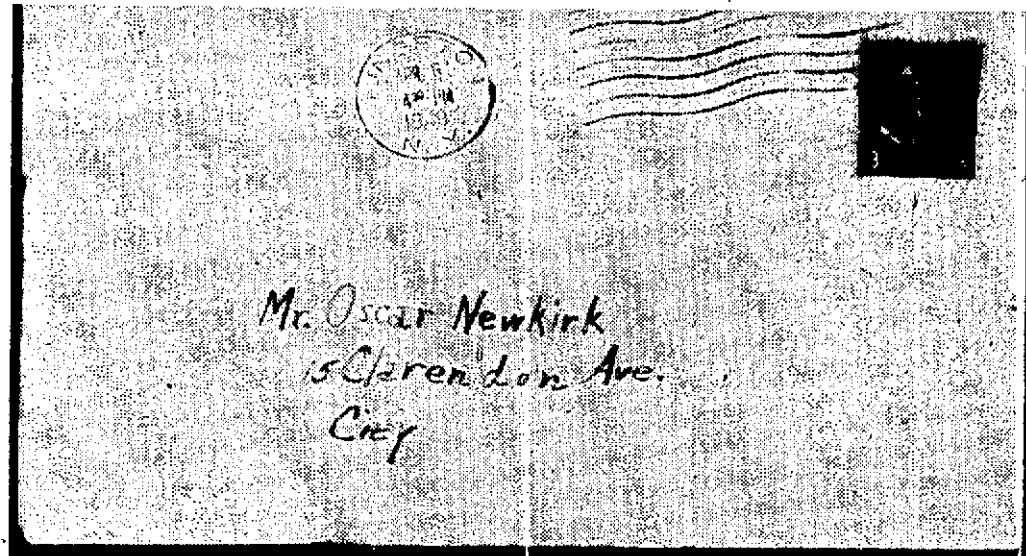

The sources say further that the Soviet delegate might decide not to risk a vote but to lie at the North Atlantic Pact at every opportunity. This would give them the advantage of airing their views without risking a defeat.

High Command Considers Effect Of Arming Europe

How It Will Affect U.S. Armed Forces Is One of Problems Studied

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The effect that re-arming of western Europe might have on U. S. armed forces is among the knotty problems being considered by the military high command and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in their Key West talks.

The opening session of the joint chiefs of staff today in the seclusion of the Florida naval base happened to follow hard on the heels of news in Washington that raised a question of immediate concern to the army, navy and air force. The question:

Would some of the money for rebuilding the defenses of the western European members of the Atlantic pact eventually come out of the budget for the national military establishment?

Initial interpretations of a somewhat involved speech by Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, economic adviser for President Truman, seemed to say it would.

Mr. Truman told a news conference yesterday Nourse's statements had been distorted. He said the money would be separate from the overall government budget he already has submitted to Congress ($41,900,000,000). Then he said the question of re-arming cost is under study by the Budget Bureau, State Department and the defense establishment.

And then, when asked how additional funds would be sought, he replied that when the time came he would meet the situation.

The Nourse speech and White House news conference left people in the Pentagon and, presumably, those at Key West a little confused.

For the army, navy and air force—long involved in contests over sharing up defense money—the situation posed a question which could give rise to even more argument. This one was:

If eventually it is decided to use some of the military's budget for rearming western Europe, which of the three services will get it hardest?

In Washington, there has been a general impression that the immediate need in rearming western Europe was to build up the strength of the ground forces of the nations in the path of any Russian invasion. This could mean that the drain would be heaviest on the army's equipment and budget share. Or would some of the funds originally intended for the air force and navy be diverted?

Secretary of Defense Johnson is scheduled to fly down to Key West on Sunday to join Eisenhower.

Deeper Hudson Is Sought at Capital

Port Albany Representative Says Channel Too Shallow in Spots

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The National Rivers and Harbors Congress was urged yesterday to endorse a project for deepening the Hudson river.

Michael J. Power, representing the port of Albany, said the river is too shallow in spots between Albany and New York to accommodate large modern freighters.

Powers told the organization's project committee that the controlling depth of the river is 27 feet for approximately 30 miles from Hudson to Albany. Fully loaded freighters and tankers require 32 feet, he said.

Powers said there is plenty of storage in Albany for full shiploads of grain, oil, molasses and wood pulp.

He asked the assistance of the Rivers and Harbors Congress in obtaining a complete survey of the costs and potentialities of the channel deepening project.

The projects committee will make its report to the convention Saturday. The 39th convention opens tomorrow.

The Rivers and Harbors Congress, composed of public officials and civic and business leaders interested in waterways, has no legislative power. Its reports to the army engineers and Congress are merely advisory.

The projects committee heard proponents of dozens of proposed new flood control and navigation improvement today in a pre-convention review. Many of the projects are still in the pre-planning stage.

Documents Not Viewed As Price Tag

Secretary Acheson Says Appeals Consistent With Spirit of Pact Signed at Capital

Reply Is Given

Countries Are Notified Recommendation Is to Be Made

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Eight of America's European allies urgently appealed today for both guns and dollars to build up their military power for defense of the West under the North Atlantic Treaty.

They were told in reply that the United States government is "prepared to recommend" that Congress enact a program of military aid covering both arms and financial assistance.

Secretary of State Acheson described this program as "in the highest interest of the American people."

But he said he cannot yet estimate its total cost. Acheson emphasized in a statement accompanying the release of an exchange of notes between the United States and the eight countries that the documents "in no sense represents a price tag to be placed upon the (Atlantic) Pact."

He said the appeals for help "are consistent with the spirit" of the alliance signed here only last Monday. The treaty still awaits ratification by the United States Senate and the 11 other participating governments.

The eight requests were submitted by Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—acting jointly as members of the western European union they set up under the Brussels Treaty last year—and by Norway, Denmark and Italy. No plea for help was voiced by Portugal, Iceland or Canada, the other alliance members.

The official appeals and the American reply set the stage for President Truman's forthcoming formal request to Congress for Western European military assistance which may amount to $1,250,000,000 and for aid to other countries. Together these may raise the total foreign arms costs of the United States next year to around $2,000,000,000.

No Hint of Cost
Acheson said he could not even hint at an official cost figure until after the President has reviewed the program.

In each case, the European allies said substantially the same thing: That none of the countries acting alone can provide an adequate armament for its own defense and for its part in the Atlantic defense system.

The State Department replied to this appeal: "The executive branch of the United States Government is prepared to recommend to the United States Congress that the United States provide military assistance to (name of country asking help) in order to assist it to meet the material requirements of its defense program."

It will be requested of the Congress that such assistance be in the form of military equipment from the United States required by (that country's) defense program and the provision of some financial assistance for increased military production on the country's part required by its defense program. Such assistance would be extended in recognition of the principle of self-help and mutual aid contained in the Atlantic Pact."

The program is expected to call for around $1,250,000,000 worth of military supplies and equipment over a period of 12 months.

Each of the appealing countries promised to provide in return such help as it is capable of in the general interest of the defense of the whole North Atlantic area.

The treaty was signed last Monday by 12 nations but has yet to be ratified. In the United States that requires approval by a two-thirds vote of the Senate.

Variations In Appeals
There were some variations in the appeals.

In the case of Denmark, for instance, emphasis was placed on an asserted need for American dollars to help meet the costs involved in increased military production.

Coast Guard Planes Seek Derelict on Theory Two Small Children May Be Locked Aboard

New York, April 8 (AP)—Ships and planes teamed today to search for a derelict schooner on which two small children were believed aboard although another schooner reported it may have been the one sighted two days ago drifting off the South Carolina coast.

A crew member of the schooner Windfall advised the coast guard today the craft was in the approximate area in which the tanker Cleveland reported sighting a battered schooner wallowing in the ocean 70 miles off Charleston, S. C.

Earlier information picked together by the coast guard tentatively identified the schooner as the Keewatin on which Donald Parrot of Salem, Mass., set sail from the Bahamas April 1. Parrot was accompanied by his wife and two children.

The schooner's jib sails were broken and trailing in the water, Ruler told the coast guard. The tanker concluded the wallowing vessel had been abandoned after blasting its whistle but drawing no response. Coast guard officials said they were not entirely convinced the schooner was the Windfall. They reasoned that the sounding of the tanker whistle would have brought the schooner's crew on deck even though high seas were running at the time.

The tanker reported the schooner drifting out of control and apparently abandoned, with sails drooping and rigging tangled. A description of the derelict obtained later from the tanker was found to tally with the "Keewatin's" appearance.

Coast Guard officials feared Parrot and his wife might have been swept overboard in a storm after locking the children below for safety.

In preparation for the aerial search—described as the most intensive in many months—Coast

Ezra Winter Dies Of Gun Wound

Canaan, Conn., April 8 (AP)—Ezra Winter, 63, internationally known painter of murals, was found dead of a shotgun wound yesterday in the woods behind his home, and Dr. R. C. Selig, medical examiner, gave a verdict of suicide.

The body, shotgun at its side, was discovered by Fred Blackwell, caretaker of Winter's extensive estate.

State Police Lt. Elton Nolan quipped Blackwell as saying he heard a shot in the woods behind Winter's studio when he went to call the artist for his noonday meal.

Members of the family said Winter had been in ill health for more than a year and was bothered by a recent hip injury. He left no notes or letters.

Winter's works were in many important buildings such as the Congressional Library in Washington, the foyer of Radio City Music Hall in New York, the Clark Memorial Building in Vincennes, Ind., the Eastman Theatre in Rochester, N. Y., and the Bank of Manhattan in New York City.

Winter was at work on the last of seven paintings for the Bank of Manhattan at the time of his death. He did all his painting in his studio, which was large enough to accommodate a canvas 60 feet long.

The artist was born at Manistee, Mich., March 10, 1886. He attended the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts in 1908 and 1909 and three years later won a scholarship of the American Academy in Rome. He received many medals and high honors for his work.

Winter is survived by his widow, head of the house of HERBS here, and three daughters by a former marriage—Mrs. Renata Hunter of Pleasantville, N. Y.; Mrs. Donald Wietan of Chappaqua, N. Y.; and Mrs. Albert Wietan of Mt. Kisco, N. Y. Funeral plans are incomplete.

Clay Confirms Krupp Sentence

Berlin, April 7 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay confirmed today the 12-year prison sentence imposed on Alfred Krupp, the munitions magnate of Nazi days.

The American military government changed the wording, however, of the judgment of the U. S. War Crimes Court which convicted Krupp at Nuernberg. The court had ordered confiscation of all Krupp's Ruhr property in the name of the now virtually defunct Allied Control Council, which included the Russians.

Clay changed this to provide confiscation by the Allied commander of the zone concerned.

This meant the British would hold most of the billion-dollar enterprise which made guns for the Germans. Krupp had only a few small ventures in what is now the Russian zone of Germany.

Krupp, 41, and 10 of his executives, had been convicted of exploiting slave labor and plundering countries subjugated by the Nazis. Krupp's aged father, Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen und Halbach, was excused from trial as mentally unfit. The court found that the younger Krupp was in fact, since 1943, the sole owner of the holdings.

Can't See Alike About Germany

Berlin, April 7 (AP)—Mayor Ernst Reuter said today U. S. military authorities and the State Department don't see eye to eye on the German question.

The western Berlin chief executive who returned two days ago from a visit to America said he felt that "agreement was not 100 per cent."

He did not explain the differences, but told a news conference the military and diplomatic branches wanted to cooperate and that Ambassador Robert Murphy's appointment as head of the German affairs office would facilitate this.

Murphy, political adviser to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U. S. military governor for Germany, returned to Washington last month. Reuter, who saw Russia 30 years ago when he was a Communist, described America as a "fantastic country."

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, April 8.—Property owners along the old concrete section of the Ontario Trail were contacted by a volunteer interviewer this week, relative to a proposition to add a two-foot strip of blacktop to either side of the present pavement through Shokan village.

Only one taxpayer is reported to have voiced opposition to the improvement which at the moment appears fairly certain of official approval. The project if carried out, would make the present dangerous stretch of highway approximately the same width as the recently completed new section of the trail and prove a boon to motorists and pedestrians alike.

The movement would seem to indicate a cooperative spirit upon the part of the state highway department in the way of reducing traffic hazards on this increasingly important and busy arterial highway.

The job, according to report, would be completed this year, possibly before the heavier summer travel sets in.

Wednesday's showers brought out a number of early spring blooms including those on Mrs. Henry Gebelin's fine, large Forsythia in the village center. The soft maples are now real showy and even the sugar maples, always reluctant to reveal the vernal urge except in a circulatory way, began to bud out during the rain. Brook trout fishermen (as of this coming Saturday) had hoped for heavier precipitation—but they'll be whipping the streams to break of day just the same. However, sportsmen will find comfort in the fact that there is going to be plenty of fish this season despite the heavy fall taken by the last year's drought. Spring stock of fish has been underway for some time and larger fish are being supplied this year. An accelerated program, under which trout stocking in 1948 rose 600,000 fish over '47, is still in force.

Birthdays coming along soon include those of Max Hoier and Russell Wendt on Sunday, April 10. . . . Max bought and occupied the former Eignor place at Ashkan about three years ago and, following the death of his wife a short time later, has been coming here for week-end and other vacation periods. He is employed as a metal workers in New York. . . . Russell, eldest son of Herman and Margaret (Windrum) Wendt, was born in Queens eight years ago and has lived in Shokan four years. A pupil of the Ashkan school and the Reformed Sunday school, he is a scion of several old Olive families.

BABSON on BUSINESS

WASHINGTON
Washington, D. C., April 8—A friend in Cleveland, Mrs. E. J. Kulus, calls my attention to the following, written by Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic Party, about 150 years ago! Read it carefully—then cut it out and send it to your Congressman. It should be printed on the fly-leaf of every school book: "I place economy among the first and most important virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers. To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of caring for them, they will be happy. The same prudence which in private life would forbid our paying our money for unexplained projects, forbids it in the disposition of public money."

Is Our Congress to Blame?
The above statement by Jefferson is just as true today as when he made it, yet President Truman won his election by preaching the very opposite and Governor Dwyer did not have the courage to defy Mr. Truman. Both candidates and their fellow travelers ignore the truth and gave the people what, in their ignorance, they wanted. This same thing has happened at various times in history and was the primary cause for the fall of the Grecian, Roman, Teutonic, and other republics.

Can the few honest Congressmen accomplish much now? Yes, without opposing further New Deal measures, they can once legislate to encourage producers. They can work for legislation which will so help manufacturers that they can pay increased taxes. Unfortunately, the New Dealers started a dangerous prairie fire; whether it can be controlled or must burn itself out, only the future can tell.

Is Truman Wholly to Blame?

Very few, except those who are close to the White House, realize the tremendous amount of mail which the President gets. Naturally, he can read only one letter out of every thousand; but all are read by someone and tabulated as to whether they condemn or approve the President's policy. They are a kind of daily "Gallup Poll" for the White House. The simple truth is that when President Truman makes an address appealing for more social security, more sick benefits, more unemployment insurance, more farm supports, and even for more taxes, which must go with these increased government benefits, 90 per cent of these millions of letters approve.

The Republicans think that Mr. Truman was elected because the country was prosperous; but that when unemployment comes in 1950 or 1952, the Democrats will be thrown out. It is true that such a rule has usually worked in the past. But, will it work next time? In the past, the existing administration had no way of helping the unemployed lacking bread, and the farmers threatened by foreclosures. Now, this has all changed. The present administration, even in an election during a depression, could promise so much more help than the Republicans would promise the old rule might not apply again.

What Should Readers Do?

The first thing to realize is that the money which is given away in price supports or pensions, must be collected from all the readers of this column. The second thing to realize is that these funds can be taken away from the rich only for a few years. Soon there will be no profits to tax. What then? The answer is very simple. If the unfortunate non-producers are to be supported by the fortunate producers, which is the basis of the New Deal philosophy and has some justification, then production and economy should be encouraged in every possible way by Congress, by labor unions, and especially by our schools in order to have funds to tax.

The same basic truths which Jefferson preached apply today and we should teach these to our children. Some of us parents may hang on to enough money to keep us going through our few remaining years, whatever happens to the country. With our children this will be very different. Only character, hard work and economy on their part, will save them. All cannot ride in the government's cart or it will stop. Some must pull the cart. My appeal is that accompanying all New Deal legislation should be special benefits to all corporations and individuals engaged in useful production. Otherwise, we all "go bust."

28 Per Cent Under 21

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Twenty-eight per cent of 2,246 persons arrested for major crimes in New York during March were under 21 years of age. The correction department said the total of arrests was slightly higher than in February. About 47 per cent of the charges were for theft and attempted theft, including robbery, burglary and grand larceny.

Robinson Declares Social Security Is Inequitable Tax

Washington, April 8 (AP)—George B. Robinson, retired banker of Irvington, N. Y., told a House Committee yesterday that the social security program "conceals liabilities" and is based upon an "uneven, inequitable and discriminatory plan of taxation." Robinson testified "for myself, alone" at the Ways and Means Committee hearing on a measure which would extend social security coverage to about 20,000,000 more people and liberalize benefit payments. He opposed all provisions of the bill except that to increase to two per cent the tax payable by both employers and wage earners. Robinson said the program's objectives were "unsuccessful and unacceptable" because they could cause uneven taxation and did not prepare the government to pay future benefits. He supported higher tax rates now, but opposed extending and increasing benefit payments until reserves could be accumulated. "Present benefits are preponderantly bonuses," he said, "paid without respect to need."

Life asserted that the social security financing program was "unsound and unfair" because people now pay a small tax for the same benefits that will cost future beneficiaries much more in taxes. Robinson blamed insurance interests for "authorizing the accounting error" that accumulated reserves was "purposeless and subject to pressure for higher payments and spending for extraneous purposes." About one-half of Australia has no surface drainage.

SECOND-CLASS POSTAL INCREASE

When Congress instituted the low second-class mail rate for newspapers and periodicals, some 70 years ago, the main purpose was not to subsidize the publishers. It was argued at the time that the subsidy would make it possible for the reader to get news and information at a more reasonable cost.

That argument came to mind as we looked at an article in the current issue of Collier's magazine. The article appeared, by chance, as Congress was considering an increase in the second-class rate. It consisted of 101 questions and answers on cancer, prepared by the American Cancer Society from hundreds of questions put to the society and family doctors by laymen, and timed to coincide with Cancer Control Month.

The article ran four pages, and it cost the Cancer Society nothing. But if the society had undertaken to mail out those four pages to the public that the magazine reaches (about 3,000,000 circulation) the bill would have been considerable, even without printing costs. If the cost of paper and envelopes, addressing and mailing (unsealed and third class) was 4 cents each, that would be $120,000.

If the society had bought the same four pages at the magazine's advertising rate the price might have been close to one-third of the mailing cost. And if it had dressed its information up in color, as Collier's did, the bill would have been even bigger.

In other words, from $40,000 to $120,000 might have been diverted from cancer research, perhaps, or some other vital activity in the same field to give the public the answers to its most frequent questions about the disease.

What has all this to do with mail rates? Two things, it seems to us. One is that the article in question is typical of the public service that newspapers and magazines have given the public through the years at a very moderate cost. That is not to say that this particular kind of service is a daily or weekly or monthly feature of any publication. But it does illustrate a general type of service. And it happened along at an opportune time to emphasize a point.

The other connection with mail rates is that this type of service would not come to the public so cheaply with a postal increase. Many if not most publications would have to raise their subscription rates—and absorb a loss in the meantime, if an increase was made effective immediately. Some smaller periodicals might be driven out of business.

The Reader's Digest has revealed that its present mailing cost is less than a half-cent and its profit a little over a half-cent a copy. Its new rate would raise the mailing charge by 2.1 cents a copy. The Crowell-Collier publications figure that their new rate would cost them $5,000,000 a year. The company's net profit last year was approximately $2,500,000. And so on.

It seems to us that the Post Office Department, in the interest of fairness and good bookkeeping, might deduct the cost of sending millions of pieces of free government mail all over the country and then see how much of its annual deficit is traceable to the second-class subsidy.

Congress might also examine the recommendations of the Hoover Commission for the Post Office Department and consider how they might help reduce operating expenses. We have a feeling that if these things were done, any necessary increase might be more bearable and more in keeping with the interests of publishers and public.

Swimming is perhaps the finest sport in the world for those who understand it, but it is also one of the most hazardous for those not well trained, or lightly taking foolish risks. It is surprising how easily a strong swimmer can drown if he is careless. As summer comes, it is well to learn from wise swimmers and take no foolish chances.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

ELECTING THE PRESIDENT

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., has been stirring action on his bill to alter the system of electing Presidents of the United States. Two theories control our present system of electing the President and Vice President:

One is that this union of sovereign states; that the people are not citizens of the United States but of the particular state in which the person legally resides; that the election is a state function to be managed according to the laws of the state; and that in the Union all states are equal.

The other theory is that the people are incapable of directly electing the highest officers of the land; therefore, the Justices of the United States Supreme Court and judges of other federal courts, the President and United States Senators were removed from popular decision. The federal Justices and judges are appointed by the President, and confirmed by the Senate; the President is selected by the Electoral College in each state; U. S. Senators were elected by state legislatures. By the 17th amendment, U. S. Senators are now elected directly by the people. It is doubtful whether this has, in any way, improved the personnel of the Senate.

The Electoral College system often produces too great a disparity between the popular vote and the electoral vote. Senator Lodge calls attention to the following:

In 1912 Woodrow Wilson, with 42 per cent of the popular vote, received 82 per cent of the electoral vote. In 1936 Roosevelt with 60 per cent of the popular vote, received 98 per cent of the electoral vote. In 1940 he received 54 per cent of the popular vote and 84 per cent of the electoral vote. In 1924 John W. Davis received 6,000,000 popular votes which brought him no electoral votes, while from 2,000,000 other popular votes he received 136 electoral votes. In 1932 Hoover received 15,800,000 popular votes, and over 43,600,000 of them brought him no electoral votes. In 1912 Wilson received one electoral vote for each 14,500 popular votes, while Taft received only one electoral vote for each 435,000 popular votes.

The real point, however, is not this disparity as much as the fact that campaign methods have changed and the attitude of the people has changed. The candidate for the presidency, by use of a far-flung press, radio and television, appeals directly to the people. In fact, the last three or four campaigns have been on an extraordinarily low level, the candidates recognizing group power rather than the capacity of the individual to decide public questions for himself. At no stage were important issues debated, the candidates wallowing in verbiage, but skirting fundamentals as dangerous. Harry Truman's attacks on the Taft-Hartley law displayed an inability or unwillingness to offer an intellectual basis for public discussion; he limited himself to vituperation. Candidate Dewey dodged the issue altogether.

In a word, the candidates, Roosevelt, Willkie, Dewey, Truman, ran on personality much as Milton Berle and Mae West do in their chosen professions. The President is elected, actually, by popular vote. And what a howl there would have been if the Electoral College did not follow the popular vote.

In some states, Ohio, for instance, where the vote was narrow, the electoral vote exceeded the proportion of the popular vote. That is why candidate Truman thought he enjoyed a mandate which, as President, he must now know he never received. Secondly, neither candidate, no matter how large the popular vote, might have been elected and the House of Representatives would have had to choose a President. This is wasteful of time and money and it might even have produced a catastrophe.

This country was founded as a representative republic. It has been moving rapidly in the direction of a democracy. The theory that the voice of the majority is the voice of God is historically untenable, but it is so generally held that it has come to be believed. Senator Lodge's proposals need to be considered from the standpoint of theory as well as practice.

And this needs to be noted: The Electoral College has become an effete, obsolete institution, as useless as the big front wheel on an ancient bicycle. It might just as well disappear.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TUBERCULOSIS OF THE SKIN

During World War I we had in our hospital a case of tuberculosis of the skin known as lupus vulgaris. Despite general and local methods of treatment, we were unable to effect a cure although the eruption sometimes appeared to be gradually disappearing only to become active again.

Some months ago I wrote of a number of cures of lupus vulgaris by the use of vitamin D with calcium (calciferol), reported by Dr. M. J. Charpy in "Annals of Dermatology and Syphilology." An improvement on treatment of lupus vulgaris by vitamin D is now reported.

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Theodore Cornbleet, Chicago, records the results obtained by British and American physicians who, in addition to vitamin D2 (calciferol), added the new wonder drug, streptomycin, an antibiotic (kills organisms). Dr. Cornbleet and his colleagues found, as had the other research workers, that most of their good results from calciferol occurred during the first nine months.

When streptomycin became available, Dr. Cornbleet and his associates combined it with the calciferol and his calciferol brought no further improvement. However, as streptomycin comes easier to obtain and the cost becomes less, they are of the opinion that streptomycin should be combined with calciferol from the very beginning of the treatment.

The adding of streptomycin is apparently just what is needed to complete the destruction of the tuberculous organisms; calciferol alone can only do so much and then fails to help any longer.

A group of five cases of lupus vulgaris is described with illustrations, all of whom had been treated with fair results by calciferol up to a certain point; but the disease still remained active. These and other cases since reported, all obtained a cure by the combined use of streptomycin and calciferol.

Prolonged use of streptomycin makes it less effective, as the tissues establish a resistance to it.

Britain from revolution and a dictatorship, which might have been either Fascist or Communist. Without the aid of the Marshall Plan the English would have had either to cut down their imports of raw industrial materials, thereby crippling their manufacturing permanently, or reduce food rations by at least one third. The margin above the necessary minimum of food is narrow enough already; such a drastic cut might have been more than the workers could bear.

The Marshall Plan is something like a doctor's prescription. The patient cannot always judge what ailments or suffering it forestalls.

It's Your Responsibility Now, Joe!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington — Vice President Barkley, who more and more is becoming the balance-wheel of the Truman Administration, gave a significant report to the President at last week's cabinet meeting.

The Truman program on Capitol Hill, Barkley told the cabinet, was in much better shape than the public realizes. Furthermore, he predicted that a considerable part of the program will be passed at this session of Congress.

Barkley listed the housing bill, aid-to-education, a reciprocal trade and school health as certain to pass. However, he was pessimistic about certain other important bills, especially the Taft-Hartley Act, which he said the administration did not have enough votes to repeal.

He was also pessimistic about civil rights, minimum wages—which Truman wants increased to 75 cents an hour—and the national health bill. This, the vice president told the cabinet, could not be passed this year.

Noting that the House of Representatives is in a bad way, he said the bill will be passed at this session, despite Mr. Truman's emphatic statement that he wanted taxes revised.

Missing Russian Diplomat
 It won't be announced publicly, but the assistant secretary of the United Nations, Arcady Soboleff, has mysteriously faded out of the U. N. picture.

Soboleff, who is assistant to Secretary General Trygve Lie, went back to Russia on a vacation three months ago with the announced intention of remaining only six weeks. But six weeks have spread out to double that time, and Soboleff has not returned.

Warried, Trygve Lie sent him several cables. No reply. Further investigation showed that Soboleff had carefully removed his files, all his personal belongings, and had drawn all the money due him.

Last week Trygve Lie came to the conclusion that his Russian assistant was deliberately ducking, so sent a cable notifying Soboleff that he was fired.

The Russian was the No. 2 Soviet diplomat in this country, second only to Gromyko. It's believed he will now occupy a top spot in Moscow's diplomatic command.

City Across The River
 Musings of a columnist—Have been thinking of inviting all the Congressmen who voted the housing bill last year to see "City Across The River" when it opens in Washington. It would change a lot of votes.—It isn't a housing picture, but about juvenile gang warfare, which wouldn't flourish if it wasn't for slum housing.... The scene is set in Brooklyn—not only set, but actually shot there. Maxwell Shane, who produced the film, set up a microphone with a tape recorder in the markets, poolrooms and dance halls of Brooklyn to get accurate Brooklyn dialects and conversations.... Then he interviewed 228 boys and from them picked three to play the lead roles in the movie. They hadn't had much acting experience, but they did a terrific job.

The movie features real shots of Brooklyn—tenements on South Third Street, crowded blocks on Havemeyer street, the Marine Parkway Bridge, Prospect Park, etc.... Play is based on Irving Shulman's well-known story of juvenile gangsterdom, "The Angry Duke."... Tragic fact is that the story is so near the truth. As happens in the picture, a New York schoolteacher was actually killed by his students some time ago. And when you see the crowded living quarters in "City Across The River" you get some realization of why.... Senators, Please note.

The Strange 81st Congress
 One of the strange reversals of politics is the efficiency of the House of Representatives in the 81st Congress compared with the inefficiency of the Senate.

In the 80th Congress it was just the opposite. Then it was the Senate which functioned more smoothly—and more liberally. Now it is the House.

This reversal is due to two things: 1, the efficient leadership of Speaker Sam Rayburn and majority leader John McCormack of Massachusetts; 2, the progressive group of young Democrats elected last November, many of them from the South.

Rayburn and McCormack, old hands at the game, know exactly what they are doing every minute of the time. To anyone skilled in parliamentary procedure, their leadership is beautiful to behold.

As a result they are sending legislation to the Senate and it is bulging with bills waiting to be passed. Meanwhile, the Senate has been slowed down by a group of reactionary Republicans teamed up with certain Southern Democrats, who are consistently and cleverly undercutting almost every liberal piece of legislation to come before Congress.

German Exhibit in New York
 Opening in New York tomorrow under the protective clasp of the U. S. Army, the first German trade exhibit since the war, the German Industrial Exposition at the Museum of Science and Industry.

The American Military Government for Germany has promoted the exhibit with the idea of getting the German industry back on its feet. As one officer explained it, "We've got to take the financial load off U. S. taxpayers."

U. S. Army officers claim they are trying to do a conscientious job of eliminating Nazi exhibitors and by the time the exhibit opens this may have been accomplished. However, at this writing it looks as if some former Nazis had slipped into the picture.

For some strange reason the Army has consistently refused to publish the names of the Germans who are coming to New York to represent the exhibitors, yet forty of these German representatives arrived last week, among them Frau Peter Pixis. Frau Pixis' husband was Hitler's favorite architect for Nazi propaganda fairs, and the couple were specialists in setting up Nazi exhibitions in neutral countries overrun by the German Army. When Pixis' record was called to the attention of General Clay, he was barred, though Mrs. Pixis is still in the U. S. A. in full charge of exhibition layouts and displays.

Another exhibitor whom Clay barred as a result of last-minute protests was Dr. Herbert Gross, whose operations in this country were exposed by a Congressional committee before Pearl Harbor.

After the New York opening, it's planned to send the German exhibit to Miami, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Buffalo—if there isn't too much of a howl from the American public.

Civilians Make Airlift Go

Berlin (AP)—The same guys who won the war for the United States have licked the biggest problem threatening the airlift—life-line of two million Soviet-blockaded Berliners. Once again the United States has turned to its civilians for help and found it. The air forces denied it officially. But three months ago the airlift was threatened by crumbling morale. Airmen had to fly day and night, week after week, month after month, in all kinds of weather. The job was monotonous, tough, dangerous.

Nourse Asks Whether Americans Would Go On Spending Wildly or Really Have Requirements for Arms Reviewed

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 8—Do the American people want to go on spending more and more for armaments without taking into account what the economic system can truly absorb, or do they want the whole arms program reviewed to see whether the requirements of the Atlantic Pact and the previous military budget can be combined without adding to an already huge military expenditure?

This question was presented by Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, to a conference of civilian and military men at the Pentagon building early this week, and there have been immediate repercussions.

The speech was "cleared at the White House," which means the President read it in advance. Mr. Truman did not disapprove nor did he voice any special approval. He evidently wanted the viewpoint of Mr. Nourse thoroughly aired, however, as a second to him important to have the discussion.

On Capitol Hill the Nourse speech was taken to mean that further additions to the arms program were not desired by the President. Others thought it meant that the $1,500,000,000 for the Atlantic Pact would be an extra item and was not included in the President's January budget of $15,000,000,000.

Plainly, if the budget is increased by $1,500,000,000 and the other armament expenses remain the same, additional taxes must be found.

Then comes the real issue—will the added spending ward off a recession? Mr. Nourse's address is particularly significant on the subject of inflationary results from arms spending. In one passage, unintentionally, of course, light is thrown on the events preceding the last election—how an arms program produced a boom and inflation, how Mr. Truman was blaming business for high prices and for failing to reduce them, and how the arms program created shortages and helped prices to stay up. Here is exactly what Mr. Nourse said:

"Then on March 17 of last year, President Truman brought the bad news that international developments required us...to divert a substantially larger amount of our annual product to rearmament. The military chiefs followed Mr. Truman a day or two later, spelling out this need in terms of three billion dollars annually of added budget load.

"The economic results were almost immediate. A process of market adjustment then under way toward lower levels promptly gave way to a new burst of inflation that, by early fall, carried both wholesale and consumer prices up to new post war peaks."

Mr. Nourse doesn't interpret these happenings, of course, in any political sense. He merely recites cause and effect from an economic standpoint. He discusses the possibility that a drastic cut in the armament program could produce a more or less serious recession before suitable readjustments could be made."

Then he adds this is a far cry from saying "that, the present scale of military expenditure is really good for the economy and that a few billions more would be better."

Mr. Nourse makes a splendid plea for an increased spending program "through private enterprise so that needs deferred during wartime can be filled, as for instance, in certain public-facilities projects in states and cities.

The whole case is stated in this paragraph:

"It would be wrong to conclude that we can, without concern, add these expenditures (for the Atlantic Pact), whatever they are, to present budget items for national security. Any addition of this sort would contribute to the need for additional taxes or to the making of a budget deficit."

What Mr. Nourse is saying, in effect, is a warning to business men, to government officials and to the military chiefs that it is time to review the whole military budget and accomplish the purpose of the Atlantic Pact and national security within the $15,000,000,000 military budget. Except by implication, he doesn't say flatly what ought to be done—but he gives the economic basis for national policy.

Must Watch Economic Progress to Hit Reds

*Boston, April 7 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder says the nation should not let its preparedness program cause crippling disorders to its economy.

Snyder told the Boston chapter of the Military order of the World Wars last night that Communism "thrives upon economic and social distress."

"The manner in which we conduct our economic affairs at home," he said, "has a vital influence on economic progress in most other regions of the world."

"It is not enough to support an army, navy and an air force. We must also maintain a high standard of civilian economic and spiritual health."

He said that failure to do this not only would affect our own economic well-being but would jeopardize in many countries the very existence of democratic institutions.

Teen-Agers Ruled Out

Denver (AP) — When a Denver grandmother, Mrs. Mary Louise Dunham, decided to operate a baby-sitting service, she made this her first rule: No teen-agers. "They create too many problems," says the head of Baby Sitters, Inc. "Our sitters are all 21 or over and we prefer mothers, grandmothers, older sisters or others who understand children and have taken care of them." Mrs. Dunham began her service two years ago and now gets about 1,000 calls a month from parents. Her 200 sitters manage to keep busy. Parents have to pay $1 per month registration fee to Baby Sitters, Inc., and 60 cents per hour to the sitter.

School Operators Charged With Too Much Sex Angle

Exeter, Eng., April, (AP) — The Staffordshire County Council alleged in court today that a progressive school matron gave a contraceptive to a girl pupil who had "some rather undue attachment" for a boy.

The court was hearing a case brought by the council against Robert Copping, 29, and Edward Reynolds, 31, who operate the school, Horsley Hall. The hearing was on a summons alleging that Copping and Reynolds were unfit to have the care of children and that the pupils were being kept in a "detrimental" environment.

Copping recently invited a cane manufacturer to lecture at the school and then encouraged boys to trash him with canes of his own manufacture.

Both Copping and Reynolds denied the complaints.

The council's lawyers said boys and girls visited each other at night and there was constant talk of sex among them. The pupils are in the lower teen age group.

Before the case opened, D. E. Evans, attorney for Copping and Reynolds, described the proceedings as "preposterous." They were apparently undertaken, he declared, to express the local authority's disapproval at the way the school was being conducted.

J. F. Bourke, attorney for the county council, told the magistrates there was no punishment for any offense at the school and that all the 22 pupils were allowed to do whatever they desired.

"It is a mixed school," he said. "There is nothing to prevent boys and girls at any hour of the day or night from visiting each other in their bedrooms, and it is done."

"There is constant talk about sex among these children," Bourke alleged that once in the presence of Reynolds, one of the boys was dared by another to seduce "A female in the establishment." Reynolds, he charged, told the boy, "I bet a pound to a penny you don't" and it was treated as a joke.

Bourke said that once a matron at the school noticed "some rather undue attachment developing between a boy and girl pupil. Fearing they were indulging in intimacy, the matron was thoughtful enough to provide this child, a girl, with a contraceptive in case there might be an accident."

One witness, Mrs. Marjorie Van Coute, who identified herself as a voluntary worker at the school for about three months last summer, admitted she gave a contraceptive to a girl pupil.

On cross-examination, she said Copping was "astounded" when he heard about it and "said I had been every sort of fool and most irresponsible."

The defense attorney, before calling his first witness, told the court, "We have here an experiment in education which is unknown to the vast majority of people interested in childhood."

"One of the most astonishing features in the case," he declared, "was that not a single parent had been called to say they were dissatisfied with the way the children were treated or that the children had suffered."

First American Circus Started 134 Years Ago

Somers, N. Y., April 7 (AP) — "Old Bet" is dead, but she's the center of interest these days in this community, the birthplace of the American circus.

The town is celebrating the 134th anniversary of the first traveling animal show, and a 122-year-old wooden statue of "Old Bet" is getting a big share of the attention.

"Old Bet," the first elephant ever brought to this country, was imported about 1815 by a sea captain and given to Huculian Bailey of Somers, local historians say. When Bailey found the elephant was useless as a farm animal, he began exhibiting it as a freak, and taking it on road tours. Later, he added other animals to the show. A fanatical farmer, considering Old Bet an omen of bad luck, shot and killed her.

With the money Bailey had made from the first American circus, he built a hotel, which now is the town hall.

Craftsmen from Bethel, Conn., are being put to work this week to renovate "Old Bet," whose wooden likeness stands atop a granite pedestal outside the hall.

Landscape Project Will Start Soon at Plattekill School

Work will start this month on a $500 landscaping project for the Plattekill School on Route 32.

Planned as a 4-H Club project, the work will be financed by the board of education of the Wallkill Central School District. Landscaping plans were laid out without cost to the village by Elias J. Beach, garden editor and author of Rhinbeck.

The idea was advanced by Mrs. Albin Orlovski, leader of the Plattekill Girls' 4-H Club and Plattekill correspondent for the weekly Wallkill Valley World.

Aware of the fact that the modern school building at Plattekill has had a "bare" look ever since its construction in 1940, Mrs. Orlovski contacted Beach, who writes a garden column in the Valley World.

Beach was enthusiastic, offering his services willingly. Mrs. Orlovski reports. He came to Plattekill, surveyed the ground and laid out plans for a landscaping project. Together, Mrs. Orlovski and Beach approached the board of education two weeks ago with the plan.

Board Likes Idea
Members of the board—C. Terwilliger, president, Joseph Haebruck, A. Crowell, Ralph Birdsall and Gorow Wilkins—thought the idea a good one and appropriated $500 for the purchase of shrubs and other necessary materials.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Orlovski mentioned the idea to the 26 members of her Girls' 4-H Club, who are also enthusiastic about the work and are ready to start digging the holes for the shrubs by the end of this month. Leaders of the newly formed Boys' 4-H Club, Ralph Garcia, Walter Kleeman and Francis Murphy, obtained the cooperation of the 16 boys in that club, who will stake out the grounds and assist in the project.

Pupils Volunteer
That the boys and girls have offered to do the work themselves is a wonderful thing, Mrs. Orlovski said, for it will provide them with an interesting project and will develop a pride in their own school.

The Plattekill School has 121 pupils in grades one to six. Mrs. Margaret Foster is principal. It is in the Wallkill Central School District, of which Robert Robinson is supervising principal.

R.P.I. Receives Special Gifts

Troy, N. Y., April 8.—Under a special trust fund set up by George T. Horton, president of the Chicago Bridge & Iron Co. from 1912 until his death in 1945, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute has received $78,000 to use as it sees fit.

Mr. Horton was graduated from R.P.I. in 1888. He served as a trustee after 1925 and was president of the alumni association in 1933-34. Previous benefactions to the Institute had included scholarship and fellowship funds and a generous gift for a metallurgical laboratory. His presidency of the Chicago Bridge & Iron Co. of note in steel construction, among them the design of the Hortonsphere in 1928. This type of cylindrical tank for fluids and gases has found worldwide use.

R.P.I. has also received an additional $8,434 from the estate of Archibald M. Davis, resident of Philadelphia who died in 1943. This makes a total of $108,522 which has come to the Institute under 34 years' will. He bequeathed two-thirds of his residuary estate to R.P.I. in memory of his father, Josiah R. T. Davis, who was a graduate in 1876.

A third recently recorded bequest to the Institute was that by Mrs. Arthur M. Greene, a portion of an estate as yet unvalued. Mrs. Greene was the wife of the late Dean of the Princeton University School of Engineering and former head of mechanical engineering at R.P.I.

Mrs. Green Demands Headless Rooster Back

Los Angeles, April 8 (AP)—The legal fuss over Lazarus the rooster is so thick it would make his head swim—if he had a head.

Lazarus, alias Butch, has been moved to a pet hospital pending court action from several directions.

Mrs. Martha Green, who bought the rooster, sans head, April 2 and then found it was still alive and crows, charged yesterday that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took Lazarus from her home without her consent. She sued the society and the pet hospital operator for $2,500 unless the bird is returned forthwith.

The S.P.C.A., however, contended it was acting in conformity with an order by Justice Stanley Moffatt. The same judge, sitting on the S.P.C.A.'s complaint, had ordered Dr. Alan Ross, a veterinarian, to appear Saturday and explain why Lazarus should not be put to death.

Dr. Ross had been advising Mrs. Green and helping to keep the rooster alive by milk and mush feedings with an eye-dropper. Lazarus, he contends, may be valuable for research.

Eight Nations . . .

Each of the pleas stressed the view that military manufactures must not be permitted to disrupt the European Recovery program.

The Brussels Pact countries acted as a group. Their request was presented by Luxembourg on behalf of all five nations.

The five Brussels Treaty countries laid down this four-point statement of principle in their note:

"A. The armed forces of the European participating countries should be developed on a coordinated basis in order that in the event of aggression they can operate in accordance with a common strategic plan.

"B. They should be integrated so as to give the maximum efficiency with the minimum necessary expenditure of manpower, money and material resources.

"C. Increased military effort, including arms production, should be consistent with economic objectives and the maintenance of economic viability. Additional local currency costs should be met from non-inflationary sources.

"D. Arrangements concerning the transfer of military equipment and supplies for such production among the European participating countries should permit transfer, insofar as possible, without regard to foreign exchange problems and without disrupting the intra-European payment scheme."

The statement then declared: "In order to carry out a common defense program on the basis of the above principles, there is urgent need for United States material and financial assistance."

Will Submit Statement
If the United States is prepared to indicate the prospects for such assistance, the countries said, they will submit a detailed statement of their needs.

In the American reply, the State Department said the United States is prepared to recommend a program to Congress and this country would like to have the detailed statement of specific needs as soon as possible.

Acheson declared that he can not now place a figure on the overall arms program because it has yet to be reviewed by the President for a final decision.

Unofficial estimates are that besides the program worked out by the State Department calling for about $1,250,000,000 worth of aid to western Europe an additional sum for help to non-European countries will be asked. Thus the total bill to be laid before Congress may approximate $2,000,000,000.

Acheson reviewed the appeals and stressed these points: "They all recognize that economic recovery must be given first priority; they all recognize in clear terms that each country must undertake to do what it can to help itself and help the other parties of the pact; they all recognize the importance of building up at this time a modest program of arms production over and above what had been contemplated in their budgets for this year, so undertaken as not to impede the progress of the economic recovery program."

Acheson said it was of "particular significance" that the Brussels pact countries were already working together. Their cooperation, he said, augurs well for the future successful establishment of a cooperative defense program for the North Atlantic area.

Disclosure of the official appeals for help came last night. It cropped up in a State Department statement designed to clear up reports circulating at the capital that chairman Connally (D-Texas) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had objected to giving out information on the arms aid plan at this time.

According to the reports, Connally made his objections to assistant secretary of State Ernest Rogers. The impression given by the reports was that the State Department had planned to release details of its military aid scheme today. If this were true it might have complicated Connally's current job of getting Senate approval of the $5,580,000,000 foreign aid bill.

The State Department statement said that the situation had been "cleared up in a conversation between the senator and Undersecretary of State James E. Webb." The State Department said it was merely releasing an exchange of notes between certain of the Atlantic Pact countries and the United States concerning the urgent need of these countries for military assistance.

Conference Ends With Agreement

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France ended their momentous conference on the future of western Germany today, evidently in full agreement.

The final session among Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman lasted less than an hour. A formal three-power announcement of agreements reached was momentarily expected.

tion by the fleets. It seeks pay increases, a closed shop and other benefits.

Lewis had left for Washington to confer with his brother, John, before his statement was issued.

The statement gave this version of the major's tactics in the strike:

1. Cab union leaders met with the mayor 17 days before the strike was called last Friday in a bold move for recognition by the taxi fleet operators. The mayor promised to step in and bring both sides together, if the union "stirred things up sufficiently to create an emergency situation."

2. The union, falling in line with "the mayor's scheme," pressed its organizing drive, and then called the strike (with pay increases, a closed shop and other benefits as its goals after winning recognition).

3. The mayor never arranged a meeting between union and employer representatives but instead—two days before the strike began—he secretly informed the fleet operators of police plans for protecting drivers who did not strike.

Lewis said the mayor thus made it possible for fleet owners to "sit back in their swivel chairs and have the police department persecute their strike for them."

"To state that the mayor has double-crossed the taxi drivers of New York in a devious effort to leather his own political nest is putting it mildly," Lewis declared.

Lewis urged voters of the city and state to "make note of this black mark" on the mayor's political record "for future reference."

Martin Sends Wire to Stichman

Twelfth Ward Alderman James E. Martin said today that he has sent a telegram to State Housing Commissioner Herman T. Stichman with a view to determining the status of authority on the proposed local housing project.

Full text of the telegram follows:

Arthur A. Davis, Jr., president of the Kingston Housing Authority states in the Kingston Freeman April 7: "Commissioner Stichman in an address here created an erroneous impression when he said that between 75 and 100 people would be moved from the Arm street area to the new location."

Kingston residents are confused as to whether the local authority can assume sole right to dictate regulations governing the slum clearance project. Stop. Can you clarify issue?

Dewey to Make Speech, Take Airplane Ride

New York, April 8 (AP)—Two major items are on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's program here today—a speech at a dinner honoring Italian Foreign Minister Carlos Sforza, and an airplane ride.

Dewey arrived by train yesterday from Albany.

This afternoon, he will fly from La Guardia Field to Albany and back on a non-stop trip of a new Constellation plane, which American Airways is putting into operation.

The round trip, a speed demonstration, is expected to take 45 minutes.

The topic for Dewey's speech at the dinner tonight has not been announced, but his office has indicated the address will be a significant one.

Savings-Loan Groups Show Gain In Private Shares

Total savings held in savings and loan associations in New York state increased $29,045,728 during the months of January and February of this year, according to a survey just released by Zebulun V. Woodard, executive vice president of the New York State Savings and Loan League. This amount compares with an increase of $26,662,653 recorded during the same period of 1948, and an increase of $22,470,066 shown for the first two months of 1947. The total amount of savings now held in these institutions is $1,030,600,604 at February 28, 1949, as compared with $1,001,354,876 at January 1.

The savings increase reported by all savings and loan associations during the month of February showed its customary decline from the peak recorded during January. This increase amounted to $10,079,103 and compares with an increase of $11,733,609 in February, 1948, and an increase of $8,183,120 during February of 1947.

While the increase in savings for February, 1949, is ten per cent under the increase for the same period last year, the turnover in receipts and withdrawals for this month was 15 per cent greater than in 1948. The total turnover for February, 1949, amounted to $54,166,053, of which $32,122,981 represented savings receipts and $22,043,072 was withdrawn from these institutions during the month. In February, 1948, the total turnover in savings and withdrawals amounted to $48,223,513.

Dewey Signs Bill Permitting Oleo Use

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—A bill permitting use of oleomargarine in public institutions in New York for another year, until July 1, 1950, was signed today by Governor Dewey.

State law prohibits use of oleo in the institutions but the statute was suspended during the war because of the butter shortage. The Legislature has continued the suspension each year since the war.

Dewey, meanwhile, vetoed a bill which would have increased from $28 to $32 the weekly benefits payable by municipalities to volunteer firemen during a period of disability caused by injuries received in the line of duty.

The bill also would have boosted the maximum aggregate payments from $1,400 to $1,600.

In a memorandum, Dewey said he "would have gladly" approved the bill "but for a failure in its draftsmanship."

He said "it makes no provision to prevent retroactive effect of the bill to pending claims."

Dewey also vetoed a bill which would have required an automobile manufacturer, dealer or repairman to affix a photograph of his premises to his state registration certificate. Senator Seymour Halpern, Queens Republican, introduced the measure.

Javits to Open Parley at Bard

Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y., April 8—"Dimensions of Security" is the theme of the third annual International Student Conference at Bard College which opens this evening with an address by Congressman Jacob K. Javits, member of the House Committee of Foreign Affairs. His topic will be "Freedom or Security, Can We Have Both?"

The general session on Saturday will be addressed by the Hon. Adolph A. Berle, Jr., president of the International Conference of Civil Aviation, and former assistant Secretary of State, and the Hon. Ernest A. Davies, M.P., and a member of the British delegation to the United Nations.

Forty foreign students from 28 different countries, who are now studying at various American colleges and universities, are attending the conference to participate in the three panel discussions on Economic Security, Individual Security and Military Security. Panel leaders are members of the faculty of the Social Studies Division.

Took Auto Parts

Acting on complaints that various accessories such as gasoline tank caps and windshield wipers had been removed from a number of automobiles in Highland, state police Thursday afternoon arrested Theodore Wood, 20, of that village on a malicious mischief charge. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace William J. Upright of Highland, Wood pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail. State police charged he removed the articles from the automobiles and threw them away.

Newkirk, Schantz Honorary Heads of Girl Scout Drive

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Clcott Schantz, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, will serve as honorary chairmen in the Ulster County Girl Scout drive for funds which began April 1 for initial gifts. The old drive in which the public will participate will start April 15 and end April 30.

District chairmen for the drive in Ulster county were announced recently by Mrs. Ashton H. Hart, commissioner. They will be Howard C. St. John, chairman Kingston district; Arthur Pritchett, Wallkill district; Caroline Ryan, Milton-Maryborough; and Mrs. Edward Smith, Highland.

"It is imperative that the goal of $12,000 set for this year be reached if Girl Scouting is to continue the rapid progress it has made during the past three years when 35 new troops were organized," Mrs. Hart said. At the present time there are 71 troops in the county comprising more than 1,500 girls.

One of the main reasons for raising this year's required amount is to secure a field director who will work with and relative secretary now supervises the entire group of 71 troops.

Another important factor in this year's drive is the small reserve provided by the Marion Jordan fund which has been drawn on for three years to make up deficits. Last year the deficit amounted to about $3,000.

During the week's meeting Mrs. Hart told members of the Council that she was gratified in reporting that more than 300 persons will participate in the drive. She added, "I have not the slightest doubt but that the people in Ulster county will give generously for the promotion of Girl Scout work here because they realize what a splendid thing it is for the young girls." She also praised the work of 384 adults who have volunteered to work as trainers and leaders for Brownie, Intermediate and Senior Scouts.

Kickoff Date Arrangements have been made for the kickoff meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday night, April 19, when the corps of volunteer workers will meet with Howard St. John, city district chairman, for final instructions. A part of the program will be broadcast over WKNY.

Reports were presented by the committee chairman on the Council as well as the district leaders. Casper Souers, camp committee, stated that the camp folders will be sent to all Scouts this week. No badges will be presented at Camp Wendy. Those qualifying for the water badge will be given the required work for the badge which will later be given to the scout by her leader.

So far two troops have registered for week-ends at Wendy before the official opening. Souers made a plea for used linoleum and rocker or porch furniture to be used at the camp.

Report Is Given Hazel Metcalf, executive director, gave a resume at this week's meeting of the American Camping Association Conference which she attended for three days in

New York. Mrs. Janice Torrens, Port Ewen; Juliette Low, chairman, accompanied Miss Metcalf for part of the conference. Among other items, the Council was interested in knowing that the camp rate at Wendy was at least one-third lower than at Girl Scout camps in other localities.

Applications Needed

Chairman of the four districts in the county have been requested to send in their applications for camperships without delay to Mrs. DeWitt Hasbrouck, High Falls, chairman of the building committee. Those selected by the Council will be given two weeks training at Camp Edith Macy. The deadline for these applications is May 1.

New Brownie Troop

A new Brownie troop is being organized in Port Ewen under the sponsorship of the Presentation Church. The first meeting will be held April 24.

Giant Liner Is To Be Built at Cost of 70 Million

Washington, April 8 (AP)—A massive superliner will be built in this country at a cost of $70,000,000 to challenge Britain's position in the transatlantic trade.

Admiral W. W. Smith, chairman of the Maritime Commission, said construction of the 48,000-ton, 980-foot vessel will begin immediately. It is due to take to the sea in the summer of 1952.

The largest passenger ship ever built in the United States, it will be slightly smaller than Britain's Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, but will carry about the same number of passengers: 2,000.

Final agreement was announced yesterday on financing arrangements for the huge luxury liner.

The federal government will foot $42,000,000 of the construction bill, mainly through a "national defense" subsidy the other $28,000,000 will come from the United States Lines, whose flag the vessel will fly.

Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co., Newport News, Va., has contracted to build the long-proposed giant for $67,350,000. The rest of the money will go for such things as architect's fees and fittings.

Talked to Himself In Wrong Fashion

New York, April 7 (AP)—A marriage counselor who contended he was coerced by threats into a marriage that was not intended to be "real," today was ordered to contribute to his wife's support.

The counselor gave himself "peculiar counsel," domestic relations justice Jacob Fanken commented dryly in a ruling that found the man had abandoned his wife.

Without disclosing the names of the principals in the unusual action, the judge noted that he man is a teacher in a recognized college and "oddly enough he teaches the law of family relations."

Personal Finance Marks 16th Year Of Local Business

"Kingston people definitely prefer more business-like methods of personal financing," George M. Carpenter, manager of Personal Finance Co., 319 Wall street, said today in the 16th anniversary observance of the company's local office.

"The response," Carpenter explained, "to the straightforward, yet friendly loan and financing service for the individuals and families which our company offers shows forcefully that while people of Kingston want personal, individual consideration when they apply for a loan, they do not want to feel that they are asking a favor. They who want to finance their personal needs only in the same dignified way that a business man gets a loan from a bank."

Carpenter said that after 16 years of financing the purchase of automobiles, furniture, clothing, electrical equipment—of providing a convenient way for thousands of families to buy the things that make for comfort and happiness, our company has gained vast experience in adapting our loan service to the circumstances of the individual. We are justified in being proud of our 16 years' record.

"Probably the most helpful use of the personal finance to most families," Carpenter emphasized, "is for the consolidation of debts. People who are worried with an accumulation of small, pressing bills have been able to pay them all off at one time with a loan from us."

This service, of course, is also of great help to local merchants who prefer to invest their capital in other ways than in carrying extensive credit.

Carpenter was asked what part personal finance plays in the business world. He explained that the trend in modern economic thought is toward a greater appreciation of the importance of adequate consumer credit. "All business benefits," he added, "from the small local merchants to the large manufacturers, when avenues of credit are opened to the general public. We shall continue our efforts to widen the scope of our usefulness in this community. The support which we have received from the public during the past 16 years makes it possible for us to plan broader activities with confidence that our loan and finance service is filling a real need."

Crowe Shows F.B.I. How He Concealed $690,000 in Bonds

New York, April 8 (AP)—All but about $60,000 of the $883,660 which banker Richard Crowe hid from a branch of the National City Bank has been recovered—a big share of it in the attic of his home.

After a talk with his attorney, Crowe steered F.B.I. agents yesterday to the spot where he had hidden $690,000 in bonds, most of them negotiable.

The bonds were in a red manila envelope under the attic floor at Crowe's Staten Island home.

Crowe had said earlier that he dumped the bonds from a ferry into New York harbor.

His wife, Mrs. Honora Wall Crowe, said she had begged her husband to "tell about the bonds—whether he had thrown them away or what."

Later, Crowe, who had been a $5,500-a-year assistant manager of the Broadway branch of the National City Bank, put the F.B.I. on the right track after conferring with his attorney, Peter F. Gu-lotta.

Crowe, who disappeared March 27 and was arrested about a week later in Daytona Beach, Fla., is accused of taking $193,060 cash along with the bonds from the bank's vault.

More than $50,000 cash was found in his possession when he was arrested. About $15,000 was found in his parents' home, and some $60,000 was mailed to creditors. The remainder is unaccounted for.

The case goes to a grand jury today.

At the Crowes' well-furnished bayfront home, Mrs. Crowe said yesterday that she had told her husband "I prayed you would give yourself up," and that he replied: "I did. I waited for them for three days in practically the same place."

Mrs. Crowe said her husband "looked and acted disturbed." Officials of the National City Bank revealed an audit showed that no funds had been taken prior to the sudden disappearance of the $883,660.

Wiltwyck Chapter Hears of Valley Forge Memorial at Annual Spring Luncheon Meeting

A description of the Washington Memorial at Valley Forge was given to Wiltwyck Chapter D.A.R. Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Richard V. Lewis of Tarrytown, state historian. In speaking of the great Honor Roll to be inscribed on the Bell Tower, the names of four Kingston patriots of World War 2 were reported as sponsored by the local chapter for inscription. They include John Snyder, Clarence Fromer, Walter Feuerstein and Helen Feuerstein Shaler.

Mrs. Lewis was guest of honor at the annual spring luncheon held by Wiltwyck chapter at the chapter house and spoke during the regular meeting Thursday afternoon. She spoke of the Bell Tower which is the obligation of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. At present a temporary structure contains 43 bells which have been pronounced the most perfect set of bells in the world, Mrs. Lewis reported. She said that when completed the carillon will include 48 bells, one for every state in the union.

Hymns and patriotic airs are played every hour from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The National Anthem with its stirring strains rings out over the countryside at the close of each day.

The honor roll will include all of the patriots of the Revolution—any War and those who served in World Wars 1 and 2, and those who served their country in other ways during world conflicts.

Mrs. Lewis gave $280,000 as the fund necessary to complete this project. To date $178,000 has been raised. She related many ways in which money is being raised for this inspiring memorial and asked Wiltwyck Chapter to continue its support of this great project.

Mrs. Lewis was introduced by Mrs. Warren A. Russell, program chairman.

Mrs. Maynard Mizel, regent, presided at the business meeting. The chapter voted a contribution to the fund of the Ulster County Girl Scout council. Dues for chapter members were raised from $4 to $6 and new membership dues were raised to $11.

The election of chapter officers and delegates to the state conference will be held at the regular meeting, the first Thursday in May. This will eliminate the special meeting for that purpose in May.

The Junior American Citizen Club sponsored by Wiltwyck Chapter will be presented with pennants.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post
(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

AFTER THE SHOWER

A bride-to-be asks: "Is it out of place for me to go to a bridal shower? A friend is giving a shower for me and asked my future husband and his young father to come. They were much taken aback and said they'd feel out of place at such a women's party."

They are quite right! To go to a shower exactly as the girls do would be most unusual. However, it is not unheard of to have a shower, let us say at four o'clock and then invite some men to come in at five after the "shower" part of the party is over. Among these, your future father-in-law, as well as your father and special friends of both, would fit in perfectly.

A Not Impossible Name

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is now being called Ken Davidson by nearly everyone. He has never been called Kenneth. His business cards are simply "Ken Davidson." I'd like to have some cards engraved for us, and he'd like me to have them "Mr. and Mrs. Ken Davidson." What is your advice about this?

Answer: If that's the name he is known by, and the name he wants to be known by, I see no reason why he should add four extra letters, specially if this is also his bank signature. In other words, I think Ken could be a perfectly proper first name.

Suitable At Home

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to wear a hostess gown when one entertains friends at dinner who are sure to come in street-length afternoon dresses?

Answer: A hostess gown—meaning any dress suitable for receiving company—is certainly proper. The fact that it is long does not make it unsuitable to wear at home even though the others will have on street-length dresses.

Girl Pays For...

Dear Mrs. Post: Whose place is it to pay (a) the hotel bill when a young woman is invited to a men's college party, he does. (b) She does.

State Pays County $5,864 for Prizes Awarded at Fair

A check was received today in the sum of $5,864 at the Ulster County Farm Bureau office as reimbursement from the state for premiums paid out last season by the Ulster County Fair and Farmers Field Day held at Forest Park under auspices of the Ulster County Agriculture Society.

The money received from the state is used to reimburse the fund against which the sum of $5,300 was borrowed last fall in order that the premium awards might be paid the winners without waiting for receipt of the state money.

Rival Seamen Battle On Pier at Halifax

Halifax, N. S., April 8 (AP)—A long-range battle was waged at the waterfront early today as police kept hoses played on a throng of howling, rock-throwing Canadian Seamen's Union pickets from the decks of several strike-bound ships. At least two C.S.U. men suffered minor injuries.

The fight began after a special train was whisked quietly into a waterfront siding early this morning. It discharged more than 200 pickets from the rival Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.). Flanked by a cordon of police and waving saved-off axes, the S.I.U. men went aboard at least three struck ships. They moved at the double.

C.S.U. men said the police suddenly appeared from nowhere. "The police pickets' arms to their sides and quieted resistance while the rival S.I.U. men trooped aboard."

In the early scuffle, C.S.U. witnesses said two of their men were clubbed with axes handles. As soon as the S.I.U. reached the decks of the ships, batteries of fire hoses were used.

The C.S.U. called the strike a week ago after the shipowners signed a contract with the rival union.

Guardsmen Get Copies Of 27th Infantry Books

Albany, N. Y., April 7—Members of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, NYNG, with headquarters in Kingston, are receiving their copies of the 27th Infantry Division's yearbook, the first prepared since the division was reorganized as New York State's upstate organization after World War 2.

The yearbook, bound in infantry blue with the division's shoulder patch in black and red on the cover, reviews the history of the 27th Division in World Wars 1 and 2, as well as individual histories of the 156th Battalion, other artillery battalions and the three infantry regiments of the division.

A pictorial review of the 1948 field training tour at Pine Camp, N. Y., and photos of officers and enlisted men now serving in the division also is featured in the book, of more than 150 pages. The volume was prepared and published by Young's City Publishing Company of New York city.

The division is commanded by Maj. Gen. Ronald C. Brock of Buffalo, a former commander of the 106th Field Artillery Regiment, N.Y.N.G.

however, the joint chiefs and their staffs. While Johnson is in the Key West meeting, a senate committee is expected to begin consideration of Stephen V. Early to be the first undersecretary of defense.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md.) of the Senate armed forces committee, said it was probable that Early will be invited to appear before the committee next Monday.

Early was White House press secretary for the late President Roosevelt. Working closely at all times with Mr. Roosevelt, Early had intimate knowledge of the policy-making during the war days, at home and abroad. He was with the chief executive at the historic Atlantic Charter, Tehran and Yalta meetings of the chiefs of the big Allied powers.

Since he left the White House in June, 1945—a few months after the death of Mr. Roosevelt—Early has been a vice president of the Pullman Company.

Senate to Get Pact

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The White House announced today that President Truman will send the North Atlantic Defense Treaty to the Senate early next week—probably Monday.

President Truman's press secretary, Charles G. Ross, told reporters the treaty reached the White House this morning. He said it will be sent to the Senate with a "short accompanying message" by the President. "Very likely will go up Monday, but this is not certain," Ross said. "It does not go up then, it will go the next day."

Duffy Held by Police

William "Pat" Duffy, who, police said, gave no address, was arrested shortly after 3 a. m. today on a disorderly conduct charge. The arrest was by Officer Grover Hoffman, and the report said Duffy was charged with creating a disturbance by creating a "disorderly" and "driving a car without a license."

Judge Matthew V. Cahill today and hearing was adjourned until Monday.

Back Into Action

Rangoon, Burma, April 8 (AP)—Burma Air Force planes and artillery went back into action against Karen Nationalist forces today when the deadline for a scheduled Karen surrender passed. The surrender did not take place, and a dispatch from army headquarters at Gyogon said government forces resumed the war in the Insein area at the end of an agreed cease fire order.

The regular meeting of Mystic Temple 62 will be held at Masonic Temple Monday at 7:45 p. m. Initiation will take place. Master Masons will be welcome. Refreshments and a social hour will follow.

Twenty-five years ago pressurized carbon dioxide was used commercially in fire extinguishers for the first time.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 8 (AP)—Shrinking demand for stocks allowed prices to drift slowly lower in the market today.

For a while during the morning enough buying orders were executed to give the market a show of stability. Small gains and losses were pretty well mixed.

Many advances were later converted into losses. Few declines, though, were more than fractional.

Business was at the slowest rate of the week as trading interest dwindled away.

News influences were largely ignored. Most traders seemed to be awaiting a clearer view of the business outlook for the balance of the year expanding their positions in the market.

Among the losers were U. S. Steel, Jones & Laughlin, General Motors, Chrysler, Firestone, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, American Telephone, American Smelting, Westinghouse Electric, Eastman Kodak, Philip Morris Radio Corp., Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (N.J.) and Paramount Pictures.

Among the gainers were Republic Steel, Goodyear, Caterpillar, Tractor, Commonwealth Edison, American Can, Johns-Manville, U. S. Typewriter, Illinois Central, Nickel Plate, and Pacific Western Oil.

Corporate bonds moved narrowly. U. S. governments held steady in over-the-counter dealings.

Lower in the curb were Kasco, Niagara, Hudson Power, Northern Aircraft, Pancontinental Oil, United Light & Railways, and Electric Bond & Share, National Fuel Gas and New Mexico & Arizona Land Improved.

chief said, will depend upon what is found first through local sources.

Mayor Newkirk announced receipt of the letter yesterday. It not only threatened him, but also his wife and daughter.

Incited apparently by the local housing controversy, it was unsigned and threatened that if the mayor valued his life and those of his family to "beware!" The letter said the mayor shouldn't dare to build the project in the nicest ward in the city, and ended with the words: "We're mad."

Suffoletta Scores Technical Kayo Over Messina in Second Round

St. Albans Mauler Gains Another Impressive Victory at Auditorium

Art Suffoletta, the dynamic little fighter from St. Albans, L. I., demolished Charlie Messina, 137, Boston, via a technical knockout in 35 seconds of the second round in last night's main event on the B'nai B'rith boxing card at the municipal auditorium.

Referee Joe Vozdik stopped the bout when Suffoletta pinned the defenseless Messina on the ropes and was giving the Bay Stater a terrific pounding.

A few scattered boos greeted Vozdik's move but it was a sensible gesture and saved Messina from serious injury. The bout served to emphasize that they'll have to come rugged to cope with the chunky Long Island lightweight who has the torso of a middleweight and hits like a pile driver to the midsection.

Suffoletta Gets Barnes Challenge

A challenge bout between Bobby Barnes of Buffalo and Art Suffoletta of St. Albans, L. I. has been tentatively scheduled to headline the B'nai B'rith boxing card on Thursday, April 21, it was announced last night.

Barnes issued the challenge last night. Bill Singer, boxing director, said efforts would be made to clinch the bout.

A collection for the Cancer Fund of Ulster county was taken last night and netted $163.

Training Camp News in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Shreveport, La., April 8 (AP)—Trade talk continues between the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Giants came here without Manager Leo Durocher who stayed behind in Fort Worth, Tex., to confer further with Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers. There was no announcement, but Durocher is understood to be still seeking one or two utility infielders and a pitcher on a cash basis plus some second string Giant material.

"There is positively nothing definite pending," Durocher said. "We're liable to get together on some transaction, but that will have to be future developments." Durocher was expected to fly here from Fort Worth to join his team for another game against Cleveland.

Beaumont, Tex., April 8 (AP)—The New York Yankees have a new candidate for their muddled first base situation. He's Bill Johnson, their veteran third baseman.

Manager Casey Stengel played Johnson at first for one inning in an intra-squad game yesterday before the Yankees broke camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. Johnson is due to be on first tomorrow against Beaumont and presumably will remain there, at least until Stengel is forced to recall Tommy Henrich from the outfield.

Shreveport, La., April 8 (AP)—At least one Cleveland Indian about whose spring training form Manager Lou Boudreau ought not to worry is—shortstop Lou Boudreau.

Lou hit a home run, a double and a single as the Tribe topped the New York Giants 11-8 at Fort Worth yesterday. His startling contribution, however, was a stolen base—his first of the exhibition schedule. He took second on catcher Walker Cooper. Sliding in neatly away from the tag.

Bob Feller got socked for nine hits in five innings and was behind 6-3 when Mike Garcia relieved him. Cooper greeted Garcia by pounding a homer over the left field fence. But Mike went on to get credit for the victory.

Each team in the Pacific Coast Baseball League plays a schedule of 186 games.

Free Fishing For Soldiers

Albany, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Members of the armed forces will be allowed to hunt, fish and trap in New York state without a license for another year.

A bill continuing the privileges until July 1, 1950, was signed today by Governor Dewey. It was introduced by Republican Assemblyman D. Midgory Stephens of Brewster.

Another measure amending the conservation law which was signed by Dewey changes the dates of the open season on raccoons. The season will run from Oct. 29 to Jan. 24, instead of from Nov. 1 to Jan. 31.

Record Crowd Sees Robinson In Georgia Debut

Atlanta, Ga., April 8 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and Jackie Robinson shined at a new turnstile record tonight in the opener of a three-game series with the Atlanta Crackers.

Robinson, the Dodgers' star Negro second baseman, was the big attraction last night at Macon when 6,436 watched the big leaguers smother the Macon Peaches of the South Atlantic League, 11-2, in an exhibition. About half the record crowd was Negro.

The appearance of Robinson marked the first time in Georgia baseball history that a Negro played on a white team against another white team. Roy Campanella, the other Negro on the Dodgers' squad, did not play. He appeared only as a warmup catcher.

Robinson's enthusiastic fans saw him collect three singles and a walk in five appearances at the plate. He drove in two runs and scored one. In the fourth inning, he apparently stole home but was sent back to third base when the hurried pitcher hit batter Carl Furillo. He fielded four chances perfectly.

There were scattered boos and cheers every time Robinson came to bat but in the late innings the crowd lost its enthusiasm, probably because of the lopsided score against the home club. Only about half of them stayed until the last out.

Court Awards $51,000 Damages To Mickey Owen

Springfield, Mo., April 8 (AP)—Mickey Owen, who jumped from the Major Leagues to the Mexican baseball circuit three years ago, won a $51,428 judgment yesterday against his former boss, millionaire Jorge Pasquel.

But the biggest hope of the former catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers still is to get back into the Majors.

"Naturally I'm happy about the verdict," Owen said after a federal jury had awarded him a sum representing the unpaid portion of his salary in the Mexican League for 1946 and his full salary for 1947, 1948 and 1949.

The jury also turned down Pasquel's damage claims against Owen.

"What I really want now is to get back into organized baseball," Owen declared. He said he expected to play semi-pro baseball this summer.

Owen was one of more than half a dozen Major Leaguers who were lured south of the border by the Mexican League in 1946. Pasquel was owner of the Vera Cruz club and president of the Mexican circuit, which folded after he withdrew his financial support.

Each of the players from the Major and Minor Leagues who played in the Mexican loop was suspended from professional baseball for five years by Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

Victor E. Harris, of St. Louis, attorney for Pasquel, said the verdict would be appealed.

The American League teams finished the 1948 season in exactly the same order in night-game won-and-lost standings as in the regular rankings.

G.E. Devises New 'Electric Eye'

Schenectady, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—An electric "umpire" to call fouls will be marketed soon by the General Electric Company.

The company said today that the device used the electric eye principle to indicate when and on what alley a foul had been committed.

It consists of a light source and a photoelectric cell, mounted at floor level on opposite sides of the alley at the foul line.

Whenever a foot slips across the line, interrupting the light, a bell or buzzer sounds and a light shows where the foul occurred.

The signal is not activated when a ball passes the foul line.

Four Maine Chances

Louisville, Ky., (AP)—Maine Chance Farm, winner of the 1947 Derby with Jet Pilot, has nominated four horses for the May 7 running. They are Mr. Busher, Irish Wit, Superb Command and The Poet. The Poet is a son of Pensive, 1944 Derby winner, while Mr. Busher was sired by War Admiral, 1937 winner.
